

Prevent

The Prevent Strategy is part of our UK counter-terrorism strategy called Contest.

Prevent is all about reducing the threat of terrorism by stopping people becoming terrorists or supporting terrorism.

Prevent aims to:

- Respond to the ideological challenge of terrorism and its threats
- Work with sectors or institutions where there are possible risks of radicalisation
- Prevent people from being drawn into terrorism and give them advice and support.

An important element of this is Channel – local multi-agency panels which identify and protect vulnerable people – stopping them from being drawn into terrorism.

Contest, prevent and channel
– how they fit together

Channel panels always have a Local Authority Chair and involve the police. Other multi-agency participants can include:

NHS, schools, FE colleges, universities, youth offending services, safeguarding boards, Home Office immigration, Border Force, prisons, probation, children's services, adult services.
